Yuccas in Full Bloom, Wild Flower Season on Coast Reaches Its Peak

By FRANCIS L. LLOYD

One of those rare seasons when the coast is a-bloom with flowers more abundant and colorful than ever has reached its height this week with the blossoming of the fragrant yucca.

The great spears of green-tinted white blooms rise on the quickly drying out coastal hills and in the valleys. They stand against the blue skies just as they did when straggling pack trains of swarthy Spaniards first crept up the coast to enter the paradise of the nearby lowlands. Today, beneath these erect bayonets, graze the white-faced cattle, indolently following the deep-cut cow paths of the precipitous side hills.

On every hand blue, blue-and-white and purple lupin form clumps of soft color. In hillside patches, the California poppies reflect the sunstand in color, forming great bunches of powdery blue.

In uplands the wind poppies make a showy stand.

Less conspicuous are the pin-points of vivid orange-red that are the Indian paint brushes. Even smaller are the white and the blue forget-me-nots, strident red columbine and red larkspur (frequently confused), plentiful yellow daisies, blue larkspur, morning glories, everlasting daisies, a few straggling johnny-jump-ups, white strawberry and blackberry blossoms, pale pink wild roses, a few primroses, the clarinet-shaped sticky monkey flowers, and a host of other blooms.

The widest range in shape and color of any of these is attained this year by the lupines, of which there are the well known yellow and blue light in orange-gold. These, too, make up much of the strongest color groups, now that the pale blue lilacs are fading. On some of the north slopes, even the lilacs make a last bush varieties, the purple variety with its long flower-stalks, and the small annual blue and white field lupine, now lost in the high grown fields of wild oats and barley.

Truly, this year the Santa Lucias are giving the southern lowlands more than a little keep competition. In Dame Nature's annual outdoor flower show!

The accompanying woodcut is by the late Perry Newberry and carries his unique signature in the lower right-hand corner. This "Pipes of Pan" woodcut shows interesting treatment with the foreground in positive and the background in negative.

Speeding Trial History Maker; Session Today

By FRANCIS L. LLOYD

Carmelites went to court in Monterey this week to see three lawyers hold the arena in a battle over a defendant who, facing a speeding charge preferred by Carmel police, sat like a forgotten woman through long hours of wordy wrangling.

The whole affair turned out to be a matter of placing the Carmel police system on trial, with Argyll Campbell, former Carmel city attorney, and Ralph O. Marron, counsel for the defence, squaring off with Deputy District Attorney Kal Y. Sapiro.

Mrs. Kathryn Bolin, wife of Dr. Rolf Bolin of the Hopkins Marine Station, was the defendant facing a charge of speeding 43 miles per hour in the residential zone and a likely fine of $10.

Her story of the arrest will probably come out when the trial is resumed today before Justice of the Peace Ray Baugh. She was arrested about 10 o'clock on the night of May 2 on San Antonio street by Officer

Les Overhulse. He said he followed her from Ninth to Thirteenth where he stopped and arrested her.

The defendant's story is that she was frightened by an unidentified car apparently following her and that she speeded toward home in fear.

Counsel has attempted to base the defence on proof that the "main duty" of a patrolman in Carmel is to enforce traffic laws, police being more interested in traffic arrests because of the revenue to the city therefrom than in any other law enforcement, and as such that Officer Overhulse was out of order in pursuing Mrs. Bolin's car in a privately owned vehicle not especially marked for traffic patrol.

Marron and Campbell quoted from the vehicle code to the effect that a police vehicle used for traffic law enforcement should be so designated and painted black and white as are the state highway patrol cars and motorcycles.

During and following testimony by Officer Overhulse, the defence sought to strike his testimony from the record, and twice the motion was rebuffed as Judge Baugh ruled in favor of Sapiro, who was aided in the prosecution by Carmel City Attorney

Business License Ordinance Given Upward Revision

Business in Carmel is up against higher taxation! And this time it is business that has asked for it. On recommendation of the Carmel Business Association, the city business license ordinance received upward revision at the hands of the council on Wednesday afternoon.

This is the net result:

The business fees for firms doing $1000 or less business per month, $12 per year; up to $3000, $18; up to $7000, $30; up to $10,000, $50; up to $12,000, $75; over $12,000, $100.

For any new business, the maximum $100 fee will be charged as in the past, and refund over and above the stipulated fee refunded at the end of the 12 months.

For business having no established location, the fee is $10 per day and a ten-day wait is necessary after application for police investigation.

Music and dancing teachers, etc., will pay $12 per year. This is for teachers having more than five pupils.

Musical, dramatic and other theater performances will be charged at $2.50 for a single performance, $5 for a series, but not assessable for non-profit organizations.

Contractors and general contractors will pay a flat $30 fee. General contractors do not include plumbers and electricians, but do include painters, plasterers, roofers and stone builders.

Capt. J. Shelburn Robison, Business Association president, and Randal Cockburn, secretary, appeared for the association, and indicated any increased revenue to the city might be used for street cleaning—with their blessings!

Peddlers formerly paid $3 per day, waited only three days for permits. Lowest business bracket, under $500, has a fee of $8.

The council gave the ordinance first reading.

Carmel Contract for High School Education OK'd

Agreement between the Carmel school district and the Monterey Union High School for education of Carmel's 10th, 11th and 12th grade pupils next year is being consummated.

The contracts have been forwarded to County Superintendent of Schools James G. Force for approval after acceptance by both parties. The cost to Carmel will be approximately $173 per pupil on an average attendance basis.

Transportation is extra and amounts to 22½ cents per day per pupil for the round-trip to Monterey.

Ninth graders will be educated at Sunset school under the junior high school set-up.

Close on yesterday's closing deadline for filing candidates for school trustee, Mrs. Helen Levinson was the only candidate for election June 2.

Juvenile Problems Told at Women Voter's League

"Never try to repeat a success", was the advice Mrs. James B. Boyle received when she was a student at the Yale Law School but in spite of it she came back to Carmel to speak before the Monterey County League of Women Voters at their luncheon last Friday and proved that not all advice is to be followed. She was again a success.

Mrs. Boyle is a referee of the Los Angeles juvenile court and spoke to the meeting about child welfare work.

Support from the League for aid in the passing of the Street Trades Bill was urged as well as support for the obtaining of some institution for the mentally handicapped child.

"What is the aim of child welfare?" asked Mrs. Boyle and "what is its reason for existence? Where can legislation and administration effectively aid the child?"

These questions she proceeded to answer in defining the duties of the federal government, the state, the county and the community in child welfare. The federal government has the power to pass child labor amendments, provide by means of social security money for the support of orphans and have a Fair Labor Standards Act. The federal government maintains a bureau for the survey of delinquent children, street traders and such matters. In regard to the street traders, Mrs. Boyle pointed out that these children are frequent juvenile court offenders and the newsboy to president fiction is now exploded; it is rather newsboy to juvenile court to penitentiary.

The social security money, according to Mrs. Boyle, is mostly absorbed by the old people and the children neglected. It is the "era of the aged and not the era of the child," she maintained. This should be rectified by the government for the future of the country.

In this state one of the great needs for legislative administration lies in the field of the mentally handicapped child.

The Congress of the Parent-Teacher Association is sponsoring a bill for a separate institution and a program in the community schools for these children and Mrs. Boyle felt that the League should throw its weight behind these pieces of proposed legislation. In her duties in the Los Angeles juvenile court she finds that it takes two years, seven months and 12 days to have these children placed in an institution and then the only places open are the adult asylums where no particular program is developed for them. The proposed home would contain 300 beds which is pitifully inadequate for the pressing need in this instance. There is also room for the support of the League in having instituted bills which control those contributing to the delinquency of minors such as poor parents, drunken parents, and those guilty of misdemeanors. Mrs. Boyle feels that in prosecuting drunken and unfit parents, nothing is gained. The child is hurt by the procedure; he should not be forced to testify against his parents or in an open court. The child should be examined in private and the case tried before a closed court. The parents who are prosecuted and judged guilty are frequently jailed and this leads to the wage-earner of the family being lost and gives rise to many subsequent troubles.

Another project for correction is the guardianship of children which is tantamount to adoption. Here the county comes in. Investigation of every proposed guardians' home should be made as carefully as it is for adoption. All departments dealing with child welfare and juvenile court work should be correlated within the county for efficient service so that those involved "should not end up in the psychopathic department" through passing through so much red tape and so many unrelated departments.

The local government touches the child especially in the recreation field. Every community should see that they have adequate facilities for their youth in this respect and once again Mrs. Boyle felt that the League of Women Voters could accomplish much by considering this.

During the business meeting previous to Mrs. Boyle's talk, Mrs. David Ball, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers selected by the committee for the incoming year. The slate was accepted by the members of the League with no dissenting vote. The new officers are president, Mrs. Howard E. Clark of Carmel; first vice-president, Miss Orre Haseltine of Carmel Valley; second vice-president, Mrs. Ritter Holman of Monterey; recording secretary, Mrs. John Eliassen of Monterey; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lee Kellogg of Carmel; treasurer, Mrs. B. D. Marx Greene of Monterey; directors, Mrs. Harold M. Graham of Salinas, Mrs. Thor Hellam of Monterey, Mrs. Perry Newberry of Carmel, Mrs. A. M. Allen of Point Lobos and Miss Lorena Ray of Carmel.

These officers will take over their duties at the League's annual picnic luncheon on June 13, which will be held at the home of Miss Orre Haseltine in Carmel Valley.

Music Society Plans Jinks for Next Thursday

Costumes will be in order next Thursday evening for the annual "Jinks" of the Carmel Music Society which will be held at the Mission Ranch Club. If costumes are just a little too difficult to manage there's an alternative: wearing ordinary clothes with one discordant note in your attire.

Amusement there will be aplenty, and of the standard of former years, with Dr. Kocher and some new additions to his famous stunts; Mike Marotta and his accordion; Susan Duval and her nimble fingers on the piano; Connie Bell in an act which is sure to be good and Ruth Austin and her dancers.

All current subscribers of the Society are invited and guests may be brought at the cost of $1 each.

It is going to be a real party with good things to eat and lots of fun.

Community Church

Dr. Wilbur McKee will preach the sermon on "The Old-Line Religion! Is It Good Enough for Today?" at the Carmel Community Church on Sunday morning at 11.

Church school will be at 9:45 a. m. Minister's Bible class at 10 a. m. Junior group at 5 p. m.

All Saints Church

Next Sunday at All Saints' Church: The Service of the Holy Communion at 8 a. m.

Church school at 9:45 a. m.

Morning prayer at 11 a. m., with sermon message by the Rector, Rev. C. J. Hulsewé. The full Vested Choir, under the direction of Rue E. Manhire, will sing George Matheson's "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go."

Visitors to Carmel are especially invited to join in this "Service of Worship."

Christian Science

In all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, May 21, on the subject, "Soul and Body."

The Golden Text will be: "If thou draw out thy soul to the hungry, and satisfy the afflicted soul; then shall thy light rise in obscurity, and thy darkness be as the noon day" (Isa. 58:10). Bible selections will include the following passages from II Corinthians 4:15, 16, 18: "For all things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God. For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day. . . . While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "Even though you aver that the material senses are indispensable to man's existence or entity, you must change the human concept of life, and must at length know yourself spiritually and scientifically. The evidence of the existence of Spirit, Soul, is palpable only to spiritual sense, and is not apparent to the material senses, which cognize only that which is the opposite of Spirit" (p. 359).

Patty Primrose Gets Set For Singing School Event

The folks in Carmel Village are getting all stirred up over the notice that Miss Patty Primrose, our singing teacher, is going to show off her pupils at a Singing School Exhibition to be held at the Community Meeting House on Lincoln Pike on the night of Friday, June 2.

The Ladies' Aid of the Meeting House felt that they should do something to encourage Miss Patty for her work during the winter and so arranged to throw open the edifice for that date and give the singing pupils a chance to show off.

Patty Primrose has made many friends during her stay in the village and she says that she is proud that she came from a family of Singing School teachers dating way back to her grandfather, the Reverend Jubal Primrose of the State of Vermont, who used to blast the Granite hills with song.

From what the paper could learn there will be a surprise program of song and recitations and some of the folks will be out in their best bib and tucker so as to show off their clothes as well as their voices.

Some of the women folks are talking about serving doughnuts and coffee to those who come to hear the singing.

OPEN HOUSE SUCCESS
 With more than a hundred parents and friends turning out to see what the Scouts of Troop No. 86, the American Legion-sponsored troop of Carmel Scouts, at the Scout House, Mission and Eighth streets, last Friday evening, favorable comment was heard on all sides.

Many were surprised to find how much the Scouts had done with very little and mostly on their own under the leadership of Scout Master P. A. McCreery. Even parents had little idea beforehand of what had been accomplished by the Scouts. Assisting McCreery has been James Thoburn, active chairman of the troop committee.

Active members of the troop are: Harold Albright, Bill Briner, Russell Bohlke, Jack Bradley, Jack Gansel, Hugh Gottfried, Bill Goss, John Graham, Jim Handley, Motje Hansen, Bob Holm, Sandy Hook, Arthur Jones, Eade Jordon, Jim Kelsey, Louis Levinson, Jr., Homer Levinson, Bob Morton, Donald Morton, John Mooring, George Moller, Alan Malloway, Phil Malloway, Bradley Quinn, Jim Reichert, Dick Rohr, Don Staniford, Gordon Stoddard, Jim Welch, John Frost.

Summer camp plans are nearing final shape this week with a meeting for this evening to complete arrangements. Between 30 and 35 Scouts are likely to take advantage of going to Camp Esselen at Big Sur this summer and these will have the advantages of a well equipped outfit which, according to Scout Master McCreery, will include even tents in case of unseasonable rain.

No Court of Honor is contemplated, inasmuch as the open house took its place this year. However, merit badges will be presented to those who have earned them when the new charter is presented to the Carmel Post of the American Legion, an event expected to take place before long.

GIRL SCOUTS PLANNING
 The spirit of the old West is pervading the preparations for the Girl Scout summer camp at El Rancho del Sur, June 11 to July 15, which will be in the form of a summer roundup.

Experienced hands as well as tenderfeet will have an opportunity to master horseback riding on the Girl Scout summer range from the Redwood trails of "Pfeiffers" Falls to the beach at Danby's ranch.

Detailed activities for the summer outing were discussed at a meeting at the camp counselors at the home of Miss Edith Tweedy last Friday evening. Nature projects were outlined by Miss Lillian Moe, who will act as nature counselor and leader for the older girls' patrol.

Dramatics and special hikes were outlined by Miss Patricia Hurlbutt who will direct these activities and will be leader of the younger patrol. Health and safety precautions and camp cookery were discussed by Miss Muriel Manning, who will return for a second season as nurse and dietitian.

The camp will be under the direction of Miss Tweedy, Girl Scout director for the peninsula.

The success of every roundup depends upon the chuck wagon, leaders state, in keeping a camp well and happy. Mrs. Grace Harrell will be in charge of this important phase of camp life.

Improvements that will be enjoyed by the campers this summer will be the use of the large swimming pool which will soon be completed by the C.C.C. boys. There will be a camp fire every evening for the enjoyment of the campers and Pfeiffer State park officials have offered to build a rock-in circle near the Girl Scout camp site for this purpose.

Carmel Woman's Club Officers Are Elected

Officers of the Carmel Woman's Club were elected at the regular board meeting of the club on Monday, following presentation of the names to the members by the nominating committee at a recent general meeting. The slate was unanimously accepted.

Mrs. Thelma B. Miller was re-elected president "on leave", and Mrs. John Fitch was named vice-president and acting president.

Other officers were named as follows: Mrs. E. Frederick Smith, recording secretary; Mrs. J. F. Tancock, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. E. Abernethy, treasurer; Ms. E. A. Fraser, program chairman; Mrs. F. W. Clappett, house chairman; Mrs. William F. Halyard, hospitality chairman; Mrs. D. W. Roper, chairman of revision; Mrs. W. E. Heathorne, director at large; Miss Agnes H. Ford, press chairman.

SUNSET MENUS

Monday—split pea soup, vegetable salad, rice pudding, carrots, ice cream.

Tuesday—tomato and rice soup, gelatin fruit salad, mashed potatoes, peas, jello.

Wednesday—vegetable soup, blushing pear salad, hamburgers, artichokes, ice cream.

Thursday—alphabet soup, pineapple salad, macaroni and cheese, asparagus, fruit cup.

Friday—cream of asparagus soup, mixed fruit salad, creamed tuna, spinach, ice cream.

Troupers Giving "Uncle Tom" Soon at Old Theater

The Troupers of the Gold Coast will open in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" on Thursday evening, June 1, to run over the week-end in California's First Theater, Monterey. Gordon Knoles is directing the production, and from the exciting rehearsals which are going on nightly in the old theater, "Tatters" and "Ten Nights" are going to be given a run for first place in popularity in Gold Coast Troupers productions.

Gordon Knoles has directed many plays in Pacific Grove, and carried leading roles in Carmel and in the First Theater. His "Mr. Ferris" of "Tatters", his "Branwell" of "Moor Born", and "Archibald Carlisle" of "East Lynne" number among the best acting the peninsula has seen.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" will introduce several new Troupers whose talents will be seen for the first time in a First Theater melodrama and olio. The cast includes Willa Mae McIntosh as Eliza; George Smith as Uncle Tom; Gordon Knoles as Simon Legree and also as St. Clare; Betty Bryant as Miss Ophelia; Mary Jean Elliott as Little Eva; Carol Walker as Topsy; Jessie Joan Brown as Marie and Emmeline; Whipple Gregerson as Gumption Cate; Verne Williams as Shelby; Alfred Shoemaker as Deacon Perry and Haley; Louis Dubin as Marks; Willa Mae McIntosh doubling as Cassy.

The olio is almost entirely new and "better than ever." In response to popular demand, "Ferdinand" will be repeated.

Real ice is promised for the famous scene of "Eliza Crossing the Ice", and an unparalleled ascent of Little Eva to heaven.

Auxiliary Set For May 27th Poppy Sale Day

May 27, the Saturday before Memorial Day, will be Poppy Day throughout this nation. Once again America will pay tribute and wear the little red crepe-paper flowers that have been made by the disabled veterans.

All winter and spring the men in the government hospitals have been busy making these poppies—replicas of the red poppies that grew in Belgium and France and which have become the Memorial Flower of the Legion and its Auxiliary. These men are paid for the poppies they make and at times can make a fair day's wage without exerting themselves to any harmful extent. This work is given only to men receiving little or no government aid and for many of them it is the only possibility of earning money they have throughout the year.

Men with any form of communicable disease are never permitted to have any part in this and the entire work is carefully supervised and the occupational therapy departments in the hospitals recognize the poppy work as having high therapeutic value.

The Poppy Day program is planned and carried out by the American Legion Auxiliary—convalescent shops have been established in many cities and materials for making the poppies supplied to the workers. The distribution and sale of the poppies is also part of the Auxiliaries' work, all in advance of any revenue received.

Poppy day sales are conducted entirely by volunteer workers and every penny received goes into direct relief for these disabled men and their dependents. The bulk of the fund remains in the community where it is collected, though a percentage goes into national and departmental welfare funds.

The Carmel Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will again, with the cooperation of the people of Carmel, do their share in bringing whatever help they can to these men who have so little and who gave so much.

On The Avenue

Mayor Herbert Heron appeared this week under a new grey fedora which he maintains is three years old, but it is new to us. The new hat is very becoming and all that, but, we should hate to see the old wide-brimmed, cowboy model permanently gone. It was a hat of character; the new one is a hat of as yet undeveloped personality. Its three years of life have been very secluded, we feel, it hasn't been to the Forest Theater or the city council meetings or the Shakespeare readings or any of those places where a hat acquires "it." It doesn't begin to compare with the mayor's squashy topper, either.

DOWN THE STREET

Farther down the street a crowd quickly gathered around a very small roadster. It was black with rosy red upholstery. At the wheel sat Bob Smith and in the crowd could be seen Paul Flanders, Mrs. Fraser, and Paul Whitman, who proved to be the owner. It wasn't the long awaited Crosley. It was a bantam and Paul Whitman acquired it last week in Los Angeles. It must have been a visitor to the southern city because it definitely wasn't supercolossal. It was little and sweet and retiring, a trifle shy about all the attention it was receiving, and this shyness deepened the blush on its little red cushion.

Youth Association Campaign Raises $225 for Project

The quota for the recreation center for the Carmel Youth Progressive Association is not yet completed, but the campaign to date has raised $225 from voluntary subscribers to the movement to establish a place where young men between high school age and 30 can spend their evenings in social and harmless association.

Started with the city's $100, the list now includes the following donors: Judge Thomas Gaylord, $25; Kip Silvey, $20; Willard Whitney, Samuel Hopkins, Lloyd A. Myers, Steve Patterson, $10 each; Robert Norton, Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Haasis, Miles Bain, O. W. Wentworth, Clara Kellogg, Reynolds Coffee Shop, Charmak and Chandler, and Dr. W. H. McCabe, $5 each.

Arrangements are practically complete for the big room over the Carmel Dairy and work is expected to begin soon on fitting it out and furnishing. The young men themselves, many of whom are carpenters, painters, etc., by trade, will do their own work. M. J. Murphy, Inc., has extended full credit and a special price on the necessary lumber and J. Weaver Kitchen is supplying at cost and contributing the labor on plumbing and heating equipment, while Belvall Electric company is similarly attending to the lighting work.

Generous support of this project is earnestly solicited by the members of the association, who themselves are sponsors of the project with the guidance and assistance of various local organizations including the city and private individuals. They emphasize that this is in no sense a branch of any other organization and entirely independent of any.

Field Trials Forecast As Hunting Dog Club Plan Is Discussed

Wide interest in field trials for hunting dogs has resulted in a co-ordinated effort to organize a group to be known as the Monterey County Field Trials Club. An organization meeting will be held at the Carmel Legion hall on Tuesday evening at 7:30, when officers will be elected.

A preliminary meeting was held at the Aguajito home of L. K. Gentry this week. Among those present were Neal J. Baggett, Harold Prince, Ed Kaiser, J. A. West, J. B. Casella, J. D. Huizenga, Steve Sheldon, Dr. Marshall L. Carter and Douglas Bradburn.

There are only two clubs of this nature in California and the local club would be the second to be affiliated with the American Kennel Club. Motion pictures in technicolor of field trials showing cockers, springers, setters and pointers will be seen Tuesday. A local meeting here in early fall is planned.

Council Favors Limit On Taxi, Bus Zones On Principal Streets

When the Carmel Art Association asked for a passenger loading zone at the gallery on Dolores street and Carl Rohr asked for a truck loading zone on the same street, the matter of taxi and bus loading zones was discussed by the city council on Wednesday.

It was suggested that all taxi and bus zones be kept off Ocean avenue and Dolores streets, removed if possible to Sixth avenue, now to be paved and already provided with curb and gutter.

Joe Oliveira, taxi operator, spoke in favor of removing all taxi zones off the principal streets, pointed to the example he has set by establishing a taxi parking lot.

Police Chief Robert Norton and Street Superintendent William Askew were instructed to look into the matter.

Old Carmelites Return to Blue Bird Tea Room They Began Long Ago

Mrs. Mae Crawford and Mrs. Pearl Ridgley, originators of the Blue Bird tea room, have returned to their old love and this week opened once again the tea room under their management.

Continuously owners of property in Carmel, they have maintained their interests here and this week took over the tea room from Mrs. Mabel C. Sampson, who several years ago obtained it from Mrs. Anne Dickinson who purchased it from Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. Ridgley.

Equally high standards will be maintained under the new ownership, while Mrs. Sampson will continue to devote all her time to the Normandy Inn.

Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. Ridgley on returning looked back to the early days when the Blue Bird made its debut many years ago on Ocean avenue when the main street was yet unpaved.

High School and Sunset Closings Early In June

Sunset elementary school will close on Wednesday, June 7, and graduation exercises will be held at 8 o'clock on that evening, according to Carmel Superintendent of Schools Otto W. Bardarson.

There are more than 50 pupils in the graduating class.

Monterey Union High School will close on Thursday, June 8, when commencement exercises will be held. About 178 students are in the senior year. Of these about 40 are from Carmel.

Both schools will observe the holiday on Memorial Day, Tuesday, May 30.

This will be the last year that Carmel students will make up a full quota for all classes at Monterey high school, as the first year will be included in the Carmel junior high school program to be launched in the fall.

Negotiations are under way to contract for education for the three senior years at Monterey.

this week resulted in no protests and accordingly will be acted upon at the next council meeting.

INFORMATION PLEASE, known in some circles as "Snobby Lobby" changed networks last week. The program is now heard on Tuesdays at 4:30 p. m. over KGO. "Information Please" is one of my favorite programs, and the seemingly inexhaustible fund of knowledge which John Kiernan has at his finger tips continues to amaze this humble listener. Master of Ceremonies Clifton Fadiman, though guilty of pronouncing the name of our famous village as though it were a brand of candy, gives the program that necessary finished touch. May we say—OYEZ! OYEZ! OYEZ!

Erno Rapee, vocalist Jane Froman, and tenor Jan Peerce are scheduled to head a gala musical revue beginning June 11. The program will be heard each Sunday thereafter at 3:30 p. m. over KNX-KSFO.

Rapee, one of the best known musical directors in America, has been conductor of the Radio City Music Hall Symphony Orchestra since the opening of the famous showplace six years ago.

The Gordon String Quartet will be the performing artists during a broadcast from the 21st biennial convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs, Friday, May 19: (KGO, 12:30 p. m.).

Howard Barlow's Sunday afternoon concerts have been revived for the fourth summer season. In addition to playing masterworks of standard repertoire, Barlow devotes a generous portion of his programs to modern American music. He is not asking for new manuscripts this year as he is still examining the great number received last season, a large portion of which are still to be considered. This week's program includes a Sinfonietta by Anthony Donato, young composer-violinist. On May 28, Barlow introduces "Symbolistic Study No. 6—Mountain Vision", a two-piano concerto by Arthur Farwell—co-winner of the National Federation of Music Clubs composition contest. Another novelty on the same program is "Symphony in A" by William D. Denny, this year's American prix de Rome winner. (KNX-KSFO, 11 p. m., Sundays).

NOTES ON A GREAT ACTOR—The intensity of Paul Muni's performance on the Radio Theatre a short time ago fascinated the rest of the cast to such a degree that several of them almost forgot their turn at the microphone. Muni's generous use of gestures and visual action, added to his penetrating characterization of Zola, and cast a spell over the theater audience and cast alike. At one point he grasped the arm of Madame Zola, played by Josephine Hutchinson, and held her rigidly before the microphone during the dramatic scene in which he decided to defend Dreyfus.

EDWARD F. MOE, 5, DIES IN HOSPITAL AT SALINAS

Death of Edward F. Moe, 75, of Carmel, occurred in hospital at Salinas on Wednesday of last week. He came here six years ago from Superior, Wis., where he had long been in business. He was born in Norway. Surviving are his wife, Martha, and a daughter, Mrs. Carl P. Burrows, both of whom live here, and a son, Fred, living in Idaho.

Kay Kinney Plans to Instruct In Ceramic Arts

Kay Kinney, wife of Bob Kinney and formerly well known to Carmelites as Kay the Potter, returned to Carmel recently and is now making plans for the summer.

She will instruct at the Carmel Art Institute in the ceramic arts, according to announcement by Kit Whitman, director, and will return to Carmel shortly to reside.

Besides her classes, Kay Kinney will spend the remaining months of this year making portrait masques of famous men, two each in a wide variety of fields.

The two artists, according to Kay, will be local men of national stature. She will also do prize fighters, baseball players, bankers, lawyers, etc., for Harry Noyes Pratt of the Crocker Art Gallery of Sacramento.

This exhibit, when completed, will be on display at all the big museums throughout the United States. Kay does not expect to complete this major undertaking much before the end of 1939.

Shakespeare Group Ends Second Season's Readings

The Carmel Shakespeare group recently completed its second year of work on the plays of the great dramatic poet, and is now taking a three or four weeks vacation.

The company was organized in May, 1937, when several weeks were spent on the reading and study of "Macbeth." Since then the group has worked on "King Lear", "Anthony and Cleopatra", "Cymbeline", "Julius Caesar", "Othello", "Hamlet", and "Romeo and Juliet" (eight of the 13 tragedies); "Twelfth Night", "Love's Labor's Lost", "As You Like It", "The Winter's Tale", "The Two Gentlemen of Verona", "The Tempest", "A Midsummer Night's Dream", "Much Ado About Nothing", "The Taming of the Shrew", and "The Comedy of Errors" (ten of the 14 comedies); and "King John", "Richard II", "King Henry IV", "King Henry V" and "Richard III" (five of the 10 historical dramas).

When work is resumed, two of the plays will be tentatively cast and put into preliminary rehearsal, looking toward performance at a later date.

The Shakespeare Festival, on which Herbert Heron has been working for some time, a future possibility for the Forest Theater, will logically develop from the studies, readings and rehearsals of this group.

Due notice of time and place will be given of the forthcoming activities of the company.

MISSIONARY MEET TUESDAY

All interested in making bandages for the lepers are invited to meet at the Carmel Community Church at 10:30 Tuesday morning. Coffee will be served at noon. The missionary meeting in the afternoon at 2:30 will be addressed by Miss Flora Gifford, who will speak on the church in India. Tea will follow the meeting.

FIRE SIREN

Yes, the fire siren is a sissy! Our editorial last week was seconded by many Carmelites who feel exactly as we do and express themselves in less gentle words on the subject.

One thought has been expressed and that is: Why was not the obviously useful siren which we had prior to the advent of the coded siren tried out as a coded siren before trading it in for "something new" with a gadget?—the gadget is a simple device which sounds the code and replaces a man who could do the same thing by pushing a button.

Going in for a bout of mathematics, we determined that a satisfactory code system could have been worked out for the old siren, allowing for its possible limitations, which would have guided our volunteer fire fighters to the location of the fire just as correctly and a lot more surely (because it was audible).

We repeat: You just can't hear that new fangled, sissy siren if you have the windows and doors shut, if you have the radio turned on, if you are in a deep sleep! We in The Pine Cone office, with the door open one noon last week, could scarcely hear the peeping sound of the fire alarm only a few hundred feet away.

Now to tackle the problem of the zone code. This code runs into numbers as high as eight. It is extremely difficult for the average citizen to count eight blasts of the siren correctly the first time. It may not require a high I. Q. to count eight blasts, but it certainly takes a wideawake mind to feel assured that the counting is correct. We can foresee sleepy firemen putting on their clothes—those who did not sleep on in bliss—and counting seven for eight and rushing off to some other part of the town before discovering the true location of the fire. Such confusion is a possibility. A code could have been worked out for numbers such as 1-2-1 which is as simple as 1-3 or 3-1, and such numbers could have been used to obviate the high numbers. And again, all such numbers could have been signaled by hand as well as by the robot-button.

Perhaps some mechanical change can be made in the new coded siren to lower its tone. The present high tone is perhaps responsible in part for the siren being inaudible in nearby zones—we have reliable information that the siren can be heard quite well on the mountains behind the Fish ranch, and the hill-billies will probably be guests at our fires from now on. It is hoped that everything possible will be tried to rectify the present absolutely inadequate and sissy siren and failing full successful operation it is hoped that we can send it back to the manufacturers and retrieve our old tried and proven siren that whooped it up for many a fire quickly quelled by Carmel's gallant fire laddies.

TOO MUCH

We can't see why taxpayers of Monterey County should be called upon to build a $100,000 structure in Salinas for Salinas Veteran organizations. But we probably will, though: Salinas seems to be able to get pretty well what it wants.

It would be very fine for the Salinas organizations to have a building of this kind, but what of the veteran groups of Monterey, of Carmel, or King City? These cities have just as much right to expect the supervisors to add another mill to taxes for commemorative projects of their own, and where will it stop?

Carmel is not even a little bit interested in Salinas Veteran organizations desire in this instance and would resent any increase in taxes to help buy a new toy.

SILENCE

*What is silence but the mood
Of divine infinitude?*

*I have found it in a tree
And in great simplicity;*

*I have found it in the deep
And forgetful pool of sleep*

*And in love as sure and calm
As a hill-begotten psalm.*

*What is silence but the way
For a soul to learn to pray?*

—GILEAN DOUGLAS.

From "A Trophy of Arms"

THE STRAWBERRY PLANT

*Above the water, in her rocky niche,
She sat enthroned and perfect; for her crown
One bud like pearl, and then two fairy roses
Blanched and yet ardent in their glowing hearts;
One greenish berry spangling into yellow
Where the light touched the seed; one fruit achieved
And ripe, an odorous vermilion ball
Tight with completion, lovingly enclasped
By the close cup whose green chimed with the red
And showered with drops of gold like Danae;
Three lovely sister leaves as like as peas,
Young but full-fledged, dark, with a little down;
Two leaves that to a matron hue inclined;
And one the matriarch, that dressed in gold
And flushed with wine, thought her last days her best.
And here and there a diamond of dew
Beamed coolly from the white, smiled from the gold,
Silvered the down, struck lightning from the red.
The overhanging rock forbade the sun,
Yet was she all alight with water-gleams
Reflected, like the footlights at a play;
Perfection's self, and (rightly) out of reach.*

—RUTH PITTER.

SPEED

*Have we forgotten then the ways of peace?
We strain ahead; we gasp with hurried breath
Until the wheels that burn within us cease
And crumble thin and frustrate into death.
What hollow goal will claim us in the end?
We know not where we go nor why we run,
But that we hasten. Recklessly we spend
Our heritage as children of the sun.*

*Let us be still, and drink the infinite sky
Into our restless lives. Its great tides flow
Across our haste, and hasteless pass us by;
Hymning the paths of silence as they go.
We know no peace. We lose the source of power
The awesome strength that moves an opening yower.*

—DANIEL HAWTHORNE.

TWO ROADS

*Two talents dwelt within a soul
Even as two roadways meet,
Yet part, divided in their goal;
Two songs were singing in one breast
One gave bright cheer, the other rest;
One fleet and loud, a plumaged bird,
The other left immortal word;
One gay with mirth, though paved with stone

—JOSEPHINE C. KERN.

YOUTH PROGRESS

At last something is going to be done for the youth of the community who are badly in need of a place to spend their leisure time. Through the efforts of Chief Robert Norton and Police Commissioner Fred Bechdolt, along with a number of interested citizens, a project of clubrooms for the boys has started.

These young men need a place where in the evening they can meet, chat, play cards or read. Many are at loose ends in the evening, out on the streets due to overcrowded conditions at home and many from downright poor environment. Already the Carmel Youth Progressive Club, as they call themselves, lists a membership of nearly forty. It might be well to point out that the name they chose of Progressive Club is not a Progressive club in the political sense, but meaning it is for the improvement of their own condition; the idea of progress.

This group has met a number of times, voted its own officers and has undertaken to collect the sum necessary to start construction work on their meeting rooms.

We are not trying to deal with youngsters, but with young men who are out of high school and under thirty.

Other cities have largely settled their problem with recreation projects and it was pointed out that Monterey had cut its juvenile problem 75 per cent in two years in this manner. There is also the Carmel Athletic Club, which will work right along with the Progressive Club and is considering expanding its activities to other sports than just basketball to provide recreational activities for members of the Progressive group who do not play basketball.

The response to the drive for finances carried out almost entirely by the boys themselves has been fine, but more money is needed. In view of the fact that The Pine Cone is and has been taking an active part in helping, we now make a direct plea for funds so that the nucleus so well started will reach the necessary total.

The whole club idea is solely for the boys and will always be that way and is in no sense sponsored by any political or fraternal organization. The committee which is undertaking the responsibility for a acting solely because of their interest in community affairs.

Judging by the enthusiasm shown by the young men, the club should be a success; their morale is a hundred fold better since they found that Carmel would do something for them, as heretofore they felt unwanted.

THE FOREST THEATER

Once second only to Carmel's rare natural beauty and her bohemian group of writers as a source of material for publicity and as a tourist drawing card during Carmel's early years, the Forest Theater bids now to return as a focal point for community enterprise. Already those who are active in various fields of endeavor, musical and theatrical, have their eyes on the possibilities of the outdoor theater.

One of the foremost is Herbert Heron, one of the few who were "originals" in the Forest Theater and who has continued to be an active member of Carmel's civic and cultural life, who has completed two years of endeavor toward building up a nucleus for a Shakespeare Festival. Such an annual event at the Forest Theater may well grow into an event commanding national attention.

There are the Carmel Players, who may see fit, when the time comes, to stage a major production, perhaps something suitable for outdoor presentation on the traditional occasion of the Fourth of July.

The Musical Arts Club is a possible source of a musical production, perhaps a Gilbert and Sullivan fantasy, with the well known characters singing their beloved songs and backed on the stage by groups of pirates of Penzance and Geishas from Japan.

The Bach Festival might well use the Forest Theater for an afternoon of music providing for a larger group than can be seated in an indoor auditorium.

Easter Services, at dawn, might introduce a religious program so popular elsewhere notably the Presidio services attended by thousands last month.

Here are just a few of the possibilities looming for the Forest Theater when it has been restored by the Carmel city parks and playgrounds commission with the assistance of Hugh Comstock, who prepared the plans.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

Dean Jennings is a very much talked about young man these days. Jennings, who wrote with the ex-Countess Yorck "The Man Who Killed Hitler", as revealed to the world by Publisher George Palmer Putnam last week-end after his abduction affair down in Southern California.

Jennings made a hasty trip south over the week-end to meet with Putnam and then returned on Monday night declaring that "this time it is no Putnam hoax" in spite of the suspicious attitude of the San Francisco Examiner, whose "ghouls", reporters to you and me, were waiting on his doorstep for a photograph or two and an interview when Jennings returned.

For some time Jennings, a former San Francisco, Paris and London newspaper reporter, has made Carmel his home, expects to live here more or less permanently. At the present time he is working on his next two books, one to be based on his experience as a journalist, the other to be fiction.

He reports that sale of "The Man Who Killed Hitler" was boosted by the Putnam abduction, but that the real value of the front-page publicity which Putnam achieved will not be known for a few weeks. Jennings says that five copies sold in Pacific Grove on the strength of Putnam's episode, however, and that altogether there have been 5000 copies sold since publication.

Although we intimated to Jennings that other writers and creative artists had found Carmel a difficult place in which to get any real work done, possibly because of easy climate and the friendly intrusions upon ones time, Jennings said he had experienced otherwise. Perhaps he is one of those workers who arrange a schedule and stick to it, one way to beat the lotus eating atmosphere.

Miss Elizabeth Niles, librarian at the Harrison Library, and her mother, Mrs. A. M. Niles, returned last week thrilled by her adventurous fortnight in the Yosemite Valley. She says the falls were magnificent, due to the early spring, and the creeks and rivers roaring torrents.

Incidental to her enthusiasm for the Merced river, she told us about the water ouzel. If you don't know, an ouzel is a small gray bird that looks like a land bird, but has the habits of a water bird, such as feeding under water; it is quite rare and very difficult to observe.

C. E. Harwell, director of the Yosemite National Park Museum, who is preparing a monograph on the ouzel, states that there are just two pairs in the entire length of the Merced's meandering on the Valley floor, and they have returned every year since his observation began to the same two nests almost hidden among wet rocks.

When Harwell took Miss Niles "a-birding" one pair obligingly darted about the nest and bobbed in characteristic habit on a nearby log. An excursion to the other nest at the opposite end of the Valley involved a half hour's wait before the birds darted by like two whirling bullets, and another three-quarters of an hour before they returned to the nest. The male bird, sitting on a small rock a few inches above the rushing stream, poured forth, above the roar of the water, a continuous cascade of trills and liquid cadences —a song that apparently is still as vivid in Miss Niles' memory as the mighty crash of the Yosemite Falls themselves.

Here is the latest of Jo Serra's "The Low Down from Hickory Grove". In real life, Jo Serra is Rome C. Saunders, now resident in Carmel and in business here.

"Mr. Smith—Mr. Cotton Ed—the old sand-hiller from down there in Carolina—he don't mince words. He says it is time for the Senate to get off its foot and stop being a loon and a sucker.

"They been letting some outsider mesmerize 'em, he says, into passing every cross-eyed and hoot-owl law anybody could concoct or think up.

"And now the latest idea I read about, it is to encourage people to eat more and use up the surplus. Hot ziggy!

"And when the surplus is gone—like maybe next month—then we will find the cupboard bare—and we have another problem. A shortage problem. Boy, it is as good as Mr. Ringling could do.

"Problems, that is our dish. If there is no problem handy, we make one—over night. Make 'em while you wait—that is our slogan.

"Cotton Ed, if he really gets up on his hind-legs and mad enough—not just half-mad—he is going places. He knows how.

"Yours, with the low down,
"JO SERRA."

The busy days of a bumper sardine season have not dampened the enthusiasm of Capt. Ralph Classic over Australia, which he visited last year. Capt. Classic is head man for the California Division of Fish and Game for this region and as one of the leading men in his field last year was chosen to take a trip to Australia to see what was "down under" in the way of fish.

Classic reports that he saw no unemployment, that a socialistic government was handling things very well, including the exploitation of natural resources of which there are an abundance, and that the newspapers in Sydney carry many times the number of "help wanted" advertisements than they do of "situations wanted."

"Go West, young man," Classic quotes Horace Greeley as saying, and translates this into "Go to Australia, young man." He says it's the last frontier.

On the other hand, Classic reports, the Australian equivalent of tap-rooms close at 6 o'clock—but then there's always a back door. In Sydney, he says, the city is overrun with the most beautiful women in the world, in a country which is predominantly Nordic, with blue eyes and fair hair the rule.

There's an island called "Dunk" on the great Australian barrier reef which, unlike most of the chain of islands along the reef, is of earth rather than of coral origin.

Our informant, Mrs. F. Kveton, wife of the former Czechoslovakia consul general to Australia, tells us of this charming place. Its owner, scion of the famed Brassey family of England, wears nothing but a sarong of the Malay type all day long, manages a tiny hostelry to which adventurous tourists come by way of narrow gauge railway, then by bus over rough roads, and finally in a small launch or lugger across a choppy channel.

On this tiny dot on the barrier reef, edge of the smallest continent where the shores drop suddenly into the ocean abyss, a small community thrives. Besides a few fisher folk who catch various species of the teeming fish life of the reef, there is also a young artist, his wife and two small children. They have saved a small amount of money, live idyllically on the reef, and work and dream like the stone age peoples of the far Paumotu atolls while the rest of the civilized world rolls on in turmoil and strife.

It has strangely befallen some of the people who went out from Britain to Australia and New Zealand to find a few of these happy and remote islands and to people them and then protect them, from invasion, even by others of their own kind. The story of Dunk Island in a more advanced stage is seen in Lord Howe Island, off New Zealand, where blue-eyed and fair-haired people work only enough to collect the palm nuts which they trade to the outside world for the few necessities they cannot provide from the fertile soil of their mountainous islet. No one can come to stay there unless he is a member, by blood or marriage of one of the residents. If, by any law, such an outsider intruded, he would probably live a lonely leper's life until he finally fled in terror. Bermuda might be much the same, did not the tourist traffic offer such a golden harvest, even compared with the old days of the Bermuda pirates who ravaged British and American shipping alike.

Mrs. Kveton, who visited Dunk Island last year, reports, however, that it will soon have an airfield where planes from the mainland may bring flocks of tourists, perhaps make this island speck a miniature Honolulu. So don't pack your bags for Dunk Island, because you'll arrive there too late.

Ban on Fires Declared for June 1 as Country Dries Out for Summer

Open fires will not be permitted in the Carmel Highlands fire district after June 1, and fires elsewhere will probably be likewise banned after that date. Restrictions cover beaches along the Highlands as well as elsewhere, including the backyard.

Fires in incinerators of approved type will be permitted, however, during the fire season which will extend into sometime in the fall, according to Jack Eaton, Highlands fire chief. Such fires must be put out by noon.

Strict fire regulations at the Highlands has prevented any serious conflagration in that heavily timbered area for years.

MECHANICAL INSPECTION OF CARS GETS OPPOSITION

Compulsory mechanical inspection of automobiles, as proposed by a bill in the legislature, was declared unwarranted from a traffic safety viewpoint in a statement yesterday by William May Garland, chairman of the board of directors of the California Safety Council. The Council has gone on record against the measure, Garland advised the California State Automobile Association, which has been leading the fight against the inspection plan.

Dr. and Mrs. James Hopper are occupying their little stone cottage on Junipero street and Eighth until June 1. Dr. Hopper, well known in Carmel, where he grew up, is graduating tomorrow from the University of California where he has been studying medicine. In July he begins his internship at the University of California Hospital.

After a wedding trip to Yosemite Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Wilson will make their home in Carmel. The two were married on May 10 in San Juan Mission. Mrs. Wilson is the former Margaret Anne Shellooe of Salinas, daughter of Mrs. Daniel A. Shellooe. Mr. Wilson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Wilson of Richmond and is golf instructor at the Salinas Golf and Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oden of Carmel Valley motored to Pasadena last week-end to visit Mr. Oden's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex McBride, who have been spending the winter in Carmel, left this week for their home in Eureka. After the children are settled at home there, Mrs. McBride will return to Carmel for a few weeks. Mr. McBride will return also for a few days.

The B. M. B. (Brother Meets Brother) Society is to have an old-fashioned dance at Robles del Rio Lodge on Saturday, May 27, starting at 9 o'clock. Joe Pinos' orchestra will play for the dancing and there will be plenty of Paul Jones, Virginia Reels and Schottisches for those attending to enjoy, besides the latest in modern dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Winter moved into their new home just off Carpenter street in time to be settled before Mr. Winter's sister, Miss Rosa Winter of London, England, arrived to spend the summer with them. Miss Winter arrived here Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. F. W. Clappett had a busy Mother's Day because all her children wanted to have her with them for a little while at least. In consequence she went to San Francisco in order to breakfast with one son, lunch with another and came back here in time for tea with her daughter, Mrs. Connie Bell.

Mrs. Connie Bell arrived back in Carmel last Saturday after a visit in Los Angeles. Galt Bell drove her here and remained in order to go to San Francisco to attend with her the opening of Dan Totheroh's play, "Moorborn" this evening. The production is to be directed by Totheroh with Blackie O'Neal playing the part of Bramwell and the theater is to be the San Francisco Golden Bough which was formerly operated by Edward Kuster. Totheroh is connected with the Federal Theater in San Francisco and the cast for the most part will be made up of the players in this organization.

Prof. and Mrs. Francis E. Lloyd of Carmel became grandparents for the third time on Monday when a little daughter was born to their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. David Lloyd of Toronto, Ontario. The new member of the Lloyd clan elected to arrive on Monday, the birthday of her eight-year-old cousin, Jennifer Lloyd. Dr. and Mrs. David Lloyd plan to bring the young lady to Carmel this summer to meet her grandparents, her uncle and aunt and her cousins. Her father made his first appearance on the stage of the Forest Theater in a baby carriage, so if the restoration is hurried his daughter may be able to repeat his success this summer.

"Ginger Ted"—departing—as caught by the facile brush of Lee R. Gustavson, New York illustrator. To you, he is Charles Laughton, as he appears in "The Beachcomber," coming to the Carmel Theater.

One of the traditions of the Monterey County League of Women Voters is the annual spring meeting at the Carmel Valley home of Miss Orre Haseltine. This year the event will be held on Tuesday, June 13. Contrary to the usual custom, members are urged to bring guests. Luncheon will be served at noon and immediately after annual reports will be given, the newly elected officers will take charge, and two guest speakers will be heard. They are Mrs. Warner Clark, state president of the league, and an as yet unannounced speaker, who will take the place of Mrs. Anna Law, who is unable to be present. Reservations and transportation may be arranged with Miss Lydia G. Weld or Mrs. John Boswell Adams.

Surprised was Barbara Bryant of Carmel on Thursday evening of last week when a group of her friends arrived at her home to help her celebrate her birthday. There was dancing and a cake to be eaten by the guest of honor and those who had organized the party. They were Sara Jones, Mary Kitchin, Dorothy Smith, Jeanne Gargiulo, Tommy Phillips, Bill Bryant, Al Elson, Joe McEl-downey, Jr., Allen Wood, George Smith, Frank Abbey, Harry Butts, George McReynolds and Pat Riodan.

Mr. and Mrs. John Magee of Pebble Beach entertained at a house party last week-end when their guests included the Duchess of Westminster, who has been in Hollywood seeing how the movie industry works, and also Mrs. Robert Hays Smith of Burlingame, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Montague, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fleishhacker, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pruyn of Long Island. The occasion of the party was the Hook-and-Eye tournament at Cypress Point Golf Club.

A. W. McEntire of Carmel has been in Ogden, Utah, where he was called by the death of his father. Mr. McEntire expects to be back in Carmel before the end of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bensberg and their son, John, came to Carmel last Sunday from Los Angeles in order to spend the Mother's Day week-end with Mr. Bensberg's mother and his brother, Carl. They returned south on Tuesday.

The federal aid to education study group of the Monterey County League of Women Voters will meet next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Douglas Carter.

Ronald Telfer, who read at the American Legion Hall on Saturday evening, was the week-end guest of Commander and Mrs. M. J. Peterson. Mrs. Peterson returned to the city with Telfer on Monday to help with the production of "The Last Cock-tail", her latest play, which will be performed next week-end. Commander Peterson will also go to San Francisco to see the second performance of the play on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kane, newcomers to Carmel, are living in a house on North Casanova street where a "walking stick" announces to their friends that they have found the right house. Mr. Kane is connected with the Bell Telephone Company and Mrs. Kane was formerly a dancer with Marie Gambrelli in New York and is very much interested in the dancing activities in the village.

From Palm Springs, where she has been spending the winter, has arrived Mrs. Amy Falk, who has taken a house on San Antonio street for the six weeks she will be here. Mrs. Falk is the sister of Mrs. Paul H. Low of Carmel and in her honor Mrs. Low will entertain at a cocktail party on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wiese of Fresno who usually spend their summers in Carmel, will not be here this summer. Instead, with their daughters, Betty Jane and Cynthia, they will motor to New York. Betty Jane will sail from there on the Normandie for a two months tour of Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Wiese and Cynthia will tour the Cape Cod country and Eastern Canada. The Wiese family are anticipating an interesting summer but regret that they will be forced to miss the Carmel Bach Festival.

Winners of the Monday night bridge tournament at the Mission Ranch club this week were: first, Mrs. Esther Hitchcock and William MacDonald; second, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Low.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Norris, accompanied by Kathleen Norris, the novelist, were guests on the peninsula last week-end, staying at Del Monte Hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. Cabot Brown of San Francisco spent last week-end as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crocker in their Pebble Beach home.

Miss Mary Camp of Carmel is on a month's trip which will take her to the New York World's Fair. She left on the Streamliner on May 7 and after a short visit in Chicago proceeded on to New York.

A recent Carmel bride was Miss Jean M. Kennedy, daughter of Mrs. Clare French Kennedy, who was married at 4 o'clock on Sunday, May 7, to Robert Claghorn of San Francisco. The ceremony took place at All Saints Church, the Rev. C. J. Hulsewé officiating. Catherine Gray was her sister's only attendant. Following the service at the church a reception was held at Normandy Inn for the fifty guests at the wedding. Mrs. Claghorn has lived in Carmel for the past nine years, her mother having come here after the death of her husband, who was the late Professor Kenendy of the University of California. Mr. Claghorn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Claghorn of Bylas, Ariz. The couple will live in San Francisco where their address is 570 Merchant street.

Forest Lodge had as guests this week Mr. and Mrs. George K. Beard of Modesto; and Mrs. R. H. Borchert and Mrs. A. W. Caldwell, both from San Jose.

Tomorrow evening the summer season of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club will be officially opened by a dinner dance at the clubhouse. Many members have already planned to be present and dance to the music of Bill Burton's orchestra.

The Monterey County Nurses Association will stage a barn dance at the Monterey American Legion Hall on Saturday, May 27, from 9 to 2. Hill-Billy dress will be the prevailing costume and prizes will be given for mountain garb, preferably the worst the dancers can find in the old trunk.

Highlands Inn honeymooners this week were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Huston, Santa Monica; Mr. and Mrs. S. Piniger; Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Harris, Alameda; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richter of Berkeley. Celebrating their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary at the Inn were Mr. and Mrs. Will S. Marshall of San Francisco. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dalzell and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Blackley, all from Santa Barbara, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Hayne King of Alameda.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Reel and their two daughters have moved from Monterey to Carmel Woods. They have taken the former Berkeley house and will in future call it home.

Mrs. Saxton Pope has left Carmel for some time and with her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Saxton Pope of San Francisco, has gone to the Hawaiian Islands. They have taken a car along and will motor about the different islands. They expect to be away for several months.

Mrs. Edwin H. Lemare, who will be recalled as the wife of the composer of "Moonlight and Roses" so-called "Idol of the Exposition" of 1915 at which he played 121 daily recitals, dropped into Carmel this week with her daughter, Miss Betty Lemare. The late Edwin Lemare was also San Francisco's municipal organist for five years after the Exposition.

The Douglas school horse show team attended the Mills College show last Saturday at Oakland. The team was composed of: Shellah Moore, daughter of Mrs. Sidney Fish of Carmel; Phyllis Havenstrite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Havenstrite of Beverly Hills; Mickey Grinstead, daughter of Mrs. Jack Glendower of Hollywood; Barbara Ames, daughter of Adrienne Ames, of Beverly Hills; and Peggy Candy, daughter of Mrs. W. W. Candy of Pasadena. They were all entered in many of the events, and captured numerous ribbons.

Patty Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Ball of Carmel, a 1938 graduate of Douglas school, has been elected president of the "Bit and Spur" club, high honor for a freshman at Mills College. She also won the blue ribbon for horsemanship for Mills.

Players Plan Greater Use of Green Room at Membership Meeting

Emphasizing use of the Green Room where one-act plays and activities connected with presenting a series of entertainments which will give the members of the Carmel Players a fuller opportunity to learn theatercraft, the Players made plans for the summer at a meeting last Sunday evening.

This indicates a possible further lull in major productions, and makes the possibility of retaining Charles McCarthy on a full-time basis more of a question than ever. McCarthy is now in Santa Barbara staging a pageant which has demanded repeat performances. He both wrote and directed the pageant.

Plans for a dance in June were discussed. William France, who has been chairman of Green Room activities, resigned, but will continue as a director. It was also announced that Bob Bratt will meet those desiring to take part in one-act plays on Monday evening at 7:30.

"Plain Jane", whimsical satire by A. P. Herbert, was given as a curtain raiser to the meeting. Harry Perkins, Mary Ackroyd, Gene Watson and Katharine Littlefield were the cast for this play, directed by Dorothy Stephenson, of the Players. The play and performance were given generous acclaim.

No Need for Pied Piper; Carmel Kids Go Carnival

By MARJORY LLOYD

There wasn't a Pied Piper in town on Friday afternoon but the throng of happy children that followed the Sons of the Legion drum corps could have been the same that skipped along to the magic music of the piper in far off Hamelin Town. The occasion was the parade preceding the Sunset school carnival. Immediately after the band came the fire engine and the fire truck full of little kindergartners dressed in bunny suits, then the Scouts, both boys and girls, followed by a medley of clowns and cowboys and pirates and Dutch girls, colonial ladies, peasants, and everything else that mothers could produce for the occasion. The rear was brought up with gaily adorned bicycles and costumed riders. Teachers were in costume, too, and the principal was a wonderful circus master of ceremonies in tail coat and silk topper.

Back at the school after the parade the children and their parents scattered to the many amusements offered, and soon the lines were long before the fish pond and the ponies and the hotdog and ice cream stands.

Mrs. Rendtorff did a thriving business with her second-hand book and magazine stand, the food sale was crowded and the lucky winner of the big cake that was raffled must still be eating it. Pink lemonade with a piquant flavor to tempt the palate was sold in a corner and did good business because of the taste, even though there was competition from a nearby drinking fountain. Over the loud speaker came the voice telling everyone what was in progress in the auditorium and in flocked the crowd to see dances by the pupils of Ruth Austin and June Delight; Milt Latham's 'Schnitzelbank,' the animal show and one-act play by the Carmel Players. The freak show caused many a laugh while through the windows of the lunch room drifted the strains of both Freddie Nagel's and Bob Farley's orchestras.

The merriment went on all afternoon as parents and children and even grandfathers and grandmothers joined in the fun. The sun finally hid itself above a light fog, the stands were sold out, and the show was over. A few children still lingered to slide and swing and turn somersaults on the bars, but by 6 o'clock all had departed with tummies full of candy, popcorn, hotdogs and lemonade, arms full of 'fish' from the fish pond and balloons from the balloon man, with minds full of memories of pony rides and dancing, animal and freak shows, drama and costumes, the children wearily arrived home and soon tumbled into bed. (I don't think they ate much supper!) The thought in every little head nodding to sleep must have been that two years is a long time to wait for another carnival and so much fun and excitement.

The great result was that the coffers of the Sunset Parent-Teacher Association were replenished. The sum taken in, according to Mrs. Webster Street, president of the Parent-Teacher Association was $335.00, and with bills all paid the net realized was $225.00.

This money will be used by the Parent-Teacher Association for augmenting its bank account by depositing a definite sum and the rest set aside for emergency welfare work. This will take the form of assisting families whose children have some sudden medical need and are not in the bracket that could receive aid from the Red Cross.

The following materially assisted in staging a highly successful carnival:

Carol Canoles, Ruth Funchess, Bobby Brown, Madeline McDonogh, Gloria Hellam, Jane Broderick, Wylen Jones, June Delight, Meta Gessler, John Elizalde, Rosanne Sprinkle, Ruth Austin, Milt Latham, Mrs. Victor Graham, Mrs. Floyd Harber, Mrs. Fred Decker, Mrs. Lockwood, Mrs. Howard Timbers, Mrs. Karl Rendtorff, Mrs. E. Heisinger, Mrs. E. M. Seifert, Mrs. Arthur Strasburger, Mrs. O. W. Irwin, Mrs. Ann Michaels, Mrs. Frank De Amaral, Mrs. D. B. ## "Third of Nation" Rivals Stage Play at the Filmarte

Visual proof that the screen can capture all the drama, thrills and vigor of a stage play—and even improve upon it in several aspects—is Paramount's "... one third of a nation ...", which opens at the Filmarte Theater next Wednesday.

The star of the picture, Sylvia Sydney, plays a part tailored to her measure. Reminiscent of her roles in "Street Scene," "An American Tragedy," "Fury" and "Dead End", the new one packs even more wallop than the others—or maybe it is simply that Miss Sidney now scores her greatest success. She is a touching and always sincere figure as the daughter of the slums, whose family's tragedy rouses her into action against the oppressive tenements.

Miss Sidney's newest screen partner, Lelf Erikson, gives her ample support as the ex-playboy, the social-minded multi-millionaire who "breaks the rules" and actually does something about conditions while others merely talk. His romance with Miss Sidney, a girl from "a different third of the nation", shows something new in devotion.

An outstanding feature of "... one third of a nation ..." is its villain—a century-old tenement house, in which families exist (but do not live)—a prey to disease, vice and black despondency.

David Marrs to Be Heard Soon In Piano Music

Announcement of a piano concert by David Marrs, well known peninsula musician, was made this week for the Monterey Peninsula Country Club on the evening of Saturday, May 27, under the auspices of the Musical Art Club.

Marrs' program has been arranged with numbers by MacDowell, Brahms, Debussy, Herbert Heron of Carmel will also be heard on the program in a reading from Tennyson's "Idylls of the King" in connection with the MacDowell sonata, "Errica."

Tickets are now on sale at Lial's Music Store, Abinante's, both in Monterey, Stanford's in Carmel and Dyke's in Pacific Grove.

Marrs is regarded as one of the foremost artists on the peninsula with a mastery of the technical problems which permits him to give a highly satisfying interpretation of the composer's work.

The McDowell sonata includes "The Coming of Arthur", "Clifton Forest", "Guinevere" and "The Passing of Arthur." The Brahms music will be Intermezzi Opus 117, No. 1, Opus 119, No. 3, Opus 118, No. 6, and rhapsodie, Opus 119, No. 4. The Debussy music will be "Reflection on the Water", "Submerged Cathedral", "Evening in Granada" and "What the West Wind Saw."

James Fitzgerald Has Watercolor Exhibit at Del Monte Studio

Watercolor paintings by James Fitzgerald, Monterey artist, well known to Carmelites, are now included in a one-man show at Del Monte Art Gallery until July 12. The gallery is open afternoons from 2 to 4:30 and evenings from 8 to 10.

Fitzgerald has been painting on the Maine coast and in Vermont during the past two years, but the exhibit includes many of his California studies as well. The artist was born in New England and painted there and in the West Indies before coming here several years ago. He has caught the California color and form, however, with a deft brush.

Titles in this exhibit include: Autumn, Vermont; Monhegan Men, Hatton Horses, Sea Gulls—Coast of

Charles Laughton In "Beachcomber" On Carmel Screen

The scenario for "The Beachcomber", which will be shown at the Carmel Theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, is an adaptation of W. Somerset Maugham's story of "Vessel of Wrath", prepared by Bartlett Cormack especially for Charles Laughton, who appears in the famous role of "Ginger Ted."

Five years ago Laughton made his screen debut in a comparatively small part in a picture entitled "If I Had a Million." Since that time he has startled moviegoers with the deftness and scope of his characterizations, and now caps all his triumphs with his incisive portrayal of "Ginger Ted."

"Ted" is an English remittance man, scourge of the residents of a small island in Dutch Malaya. His drunken escapades and attentions to the native girls are an unrelenting source of irritation to Elsa Lanchester, who plays the role of a missionary, and her brother, Dr. Jones, played by Tyrone Guthrie.

It is the Contreleur, Robert Newton, who finds the drunken, careless, indolent Laughton the only interesting person on the island with whom he can talk and share a glass of beer. He is heartbroken when, after one of Laughton's escapades, he has to sentence him to three months' penance on a distant island.

Guatemala Ghost Towns Like Ours

Similar in some ways to the "ghost towns" of California's gold regions, Guatemala has a number of so-called "vacant towns", according to Dr. George McBride, professor of geography of the Los Angeles campus of the University of California.

The "vacant towns", however, are populated on certain days and certain seasons of the year. This form of community dwelling was probably well-established before Columbus discovered America, says Dr. McBride who recently spent six months in Central America.

"During most of the year these towns are inhabited only by a skeleton population of a few hundred people," he points out. "But there are certain times when as many as 25,000 persons crowd into the community."

Fire Siren Only Whispers; So We Give It Loud Blast

Carmel's fire department's latest acquisition in gadgets, the coded siren which many residents have yet to hear in spite of a lengthy test two weeks ago on a quiet Sunday afternoon and a couple of fire calls since then, stands revealed this week as a plaything worth $628.30 more than the trade-in value of our old siren which for years whooped it up with real devotion to Fire Chief Robert Leidig and the volunteer fire laddies.

"Sold down the river; that's what I call it!" declared the old siren as Leidig turned it in a couple of weeks ago. "Now all they have to do is push a button! Firemen don't have to think any more!" Lusty Lou was heard to mutter under her breath.

Telling Fire Commissioner Everett Smith of numerous complaints regarding the new soft-voiced coded siren, Randal Cockburn, Pine Cone publisher, asked that the city hold up payment until the department had been given satisfaction.

Smith explained that no payment would be made until such time and that he had been promised that the matter would be made entirely satisfactory. Smith also said the siren could be altered or exchanged. He also said it was important that the siren be heard by traffic all over town as well as by the firemen.

Fred Smith Joins Up With Navy, Seeks to Learn Air Mechanics

E. Frederick Smith, Jr., son of the "plantsmith", this week joined the Navy and began his three months' training period at the San Diego base.

Young Smith, who has been helping his father for some time, is interested in mechanics and seeks to enter the aviation mechanics field during his enlistment.

His father was in the Navy and his grandfather, born in Norway, was a sea captain, so Smith comes of the sea by inheritance. He is a graduate of Salinas high school.

Cash Purchases for Forest Theater Are Given $1000 Limit

City expenditure for cash purchase for the Forest Theater $20,000 WPA project this week was placed under direct supervision of Street Superintendent William Askew.

The amount of cash to be spent without further council authorization was strictly limited to $1000 at Wednesday afternoon's council meeting.

Speeding Trial History Maker; Continues Today

W. L. Hudson. Overhulse was on the stand on Tuesday morning and afternoon and on Wednesday morning for a total of five and a half hours during which he gave for the most part terse replies.

To the majority of the questions put by the defence, Overhulse replied "I don't remember." On Wednesday morning Officer Earle Wermuth followed him briefly on the stand, testified that "more than 80 per cent" of the arrests in Carmel are for traffic violations, to which Campbell snorted: "Much more than that!"

Campbell then showed from police records that during a six-week period there had been 50 traffic arrests out of a total of 56 recorded.

Wermuth testified that the city owns a motorcycle, painted in black and white for traffic duty, but that the officers use their own cars on patrol duty.

The trial was moved to Monterey when Mrs. Bolin asked for a change of venue last Friday when she pleaded not guilty before Police Judge George P. Ross of Carmel, basing her request for the change on "prejudice."

The courtroom in Monterey's Few Memorial Hall was dotted with Carmel figures watching progress of the trial in which it was generally regarded that enmity between Carmel citizens and members of the police force was a part of the proceedings.

Marron laughingly referred to a recent citation issued to him in Carmel for parking in a crosswalk a few weeks ago.

Among those who were subpoenaed as witnesses but have not yet been called upon for testimony are Police Commissioner Frederick R. Bechdolt, Police Chief Robert A. Norton, City Clerk Saldee Van Brower.

City Attorney W. L. Hudson was on hand during the beginning of the trial to look after Carmel's interests, and later took an active hand in an advisory capacity because "no city could afford to lose such a case."

Apparent crucial point of the trial was the effort of the defence to strike out the arresting officer's testimony which was defeated for a second time Wednesday.

Unofficially, Campbell, in fighting fettle, announced: "They haven't stumped me. Why! I'm only beginning to fight!"

Frank Wickman and F. W. Newhall have returned from New York after being away for some time. They shipped their car through the Panama Canal, landed at Acapulco, Mexico, and drove home from there, arriving in Carmel yesterday.

Home Demonstration Of Everett Orgatron to be Given by Lial's

Lial's Music Shop will demonstrate the Everett electronic orgatron in your own home, it was announced this week by Margaret Lial. Hugh Lyon, who recently joined Lial's, is handling this division on the peninsula.

The demonstration is entirely free and may be had in your own home. The Everett orgatron is compact and requires no electrical attachments, making such a demonstration possible.

It is like a small spinet piano in size, and, in fact, can be played by anyone who can play the piano and without previous organ experience.

A demonstration may be arranged by calling Lial's Music Shop, Alvarado street, Monterey, at Monterey 5333.

"OF UNA JEFFERS" BOOK TO BE RELEASED JUNE 15

"Of Una Jeffers", written by Mrs. James O. Greenan of Carmel, will be published June 15. Mrs. Greenan learned this week from her publishers. Advance publicity will be sent out May 25. The Pine Cone recently printed a pre-review of this work on a well-known Carmelite, the wife of Poet Robinson Jeffers.
